

THERAPEUTIC APPROACH WITH ALLOTROPIC OXYGEN INSUFLATION AND ACUPUNCTURE IN INFERTILITY AND IN F.I.V.E.T. A HYPOTHESIS.

G. Menaldo, M. Sodano, A. Meluzzi.

Institute of Psychosomatic Obstetric and Gynecology of Turin, Italy.

In the western world, 20 to 25 % of all couples in reproductive age appear to have reproductive problems. In our fertility and F.I.V.E.T. Centrally, we deal with infertility problems both with allopathic and natural medicine, the latter having a global approach. The combination of both seems to avoid multiple pregnancies and syndrome of ovaric hyperstimulation. We designed therapeutic protocols which make use of acupuncture points in order to obtain an appropriate ovulation. The stimulation of 4MP, 30S, 4VC points, in the ninth day of the menstrual cycle, cause a better blood perfusion of uterus and a better endometrium trophism. The use of allotropic oxygen in F.I.V.E.T technique seems to bring definite advantages both for reducing FSH dosage administration and in better preparing the endometrium, improving thus the change of implantation and inidation, real problem of failure in F.I.V.E.T. Much interesting has taken place around the rectal insufflation of allotropic oxygen before embryo-transfer. It seems that from the first trials of these procedures of Global Medicine, without side effect, may bring better result. We are waiting to have a wider numbers of cases and to better study the biological and clinical researches.